

CONTENTS

Figures	xix
Tables	xxiv
Contributors	xxvii

1 Introduction to the Handbook 1

David E. Bloom, Alfonso Sousa-Poza, and Uwe Sunde

1.1 Why This Handbook?	1
1.2 A Brief Overview	4
1.2.1 Health	4
1.2.2 Pensions and Social Security	6
1.2.3 Income and Economic Growth	8
1.2.4 Work and Employment	9
1.2.5 Data and Measurement	11
1.2.6 Ageing and Personality	13
1.2.7 Regional Developments	15
1.3 Acknowledgments	17

PART I Health 19

2 Modeling the Impact of Population Ageing on Future Fiscal Obligations 21

Jay Bhattacharya

2.1 Introduction	21
2.2 Accounting Identity/Macroeconomic Approach	22
2.2.1 Description	23
2.3 Microsimulation/Markov Transition Approach	25
2.3.1 Description	25
2.3.2 Evaluation	27
2.4 Overlapping Generations/Microeconomic Approach	28
2.4.1 Description	28
2.4.2 Evaluation	31

2.5	Selected Review of Papers and Results	31
2.6	Suggestions for Future Work	37
3	Medical Innovations and Ageing: A Health Economics Perspective	40
	Völker Grossmann
3.1	Introduction	40
3.2	Trends in Health Expenditure, Morbidity, and Life Expectancy	41
3.3	Health Effects and Cost-Effectiveness of Medical Innovations	45
3.4	R&D Costs and Patent Values	46
3.5	Life-Cycle Considerations and the Value of Life	47
3.5.1	Lifetime Utility, Budget Constraint, and Optimization	47
3.5.2	Value of a Statistical Life	48
3.6	Morbidity, Healthcare Demand, and Medical R&D	49
3.6.1	Health Deficit Approach	49
3.6.2	Health Capital Approach	50
3.6.3	Non-Path-Dependent Mortality	51
3.6.4	Market Size Effects: Empirical Evidence	51
3.7	Effect of Health Innovations on Health Inequality	53
3.8	Avenues for Future Research	54
3.9	Conclusion	54
4	Medical Progress, Ageing, and Sustainability of Healthcare Finance	61
	Michael Kuhn
4.1	Introduction	61
4.2	Ageing and Medical Progress as Drivers of Health Expenditure Growth	63
4.2.1	Ageing: A Mixed Bag	63
4.2.2	Medical Progress, Income Growth, and Welfare State Institutions: Will the Culprit behind Spending Growth Please Stand Up?	64
4.3	Healthcare and Medical Progress as Drivers of Longevity	65
4.4	What Is It Worth? Value of Medical Progress	67
4.5	Endogenous Medical Progress: Empirical Evidence	68
4.6	Putting Things Together: Integrated Macroeconomic Modeling of Healthcare	68
4.6.1	Ageing in Macroeconomic Models with a Healthcare Sector	69
4.6.2	Medical Progress in Macroeconomic Models	70
4.6.3	Macroeconomic Models with Endogenous Medical Progress	72
4.7	Conclusions	73
4.7.1	The Ageing–Medical Progress–Healthcare Spending Nexus	73
4.7.2	Role of Economic Development	73
4.7.3	Role of Institutions	74
4.7.4	Type and Implementation of Medical Innovation	74
4.7.5	Distributional Concerns	74
4.7.6	Future Development	74
5	Technologies to Mitigate Cognitive Ageing	84
	Neil Charness
5.1	Introduction	84
5.2	Age-Associated Changes in Cognition	86

5.3	The Role of Technology in Mitigation	87
5.3.1	Rehabilitation	88
5.3.2	Augmentation	89
5.3.3	Substitution	91
5.4	Promising Technologies and Domains for Intervention	92
5.4.1	Prevention: Boosting Cognitive Health to Support ADLs and IADLs	93
5.4.2	Rehabilitation and Augmentation for Work	94
5.4.3	Augmentation and EADL Support	95
5.5	Conclusions	96
6	Gender, Ageing, and Health	102
	Xiaoyan Lei and Yuqi Ta
6.1	Introduction	102
6.2	Gender Differences in Health among Older Adults	103
6.2.1	Life Spans	103
6.2.2	Physical Health	105
6.2.3	Mental Health	107
6.2.4	Cognitive Health	108
6.2.5	Subjective Well-Being	109
6.2.6	Health Impact of Birth Control	109
6.3	Explanations for Gender Health Gaps among Older Adults	110
6.3.1	Epidemiological Explanations	110
6.3.2	Biological Factors	111
6.3.3	Social Explanations	112
6.3.4	Contextual Factors	114
6.3.5	Methodological Explanations	115
6.4	Conclusion	115
7	Economics of Disease Prevention in the Elderly	123
	JP Sevilla
7.1	Introduction and Summary	123
7.2	The Economic Challenges of Ageing Populations and the Role of Disease Prevention in Addressing Those Challenges	124
7.3	Burden of Disease in the Elderly	124
7.4	Scope Setting	125
7.5	The Intrinsic and Instrumental Value of Elderly Health	125
7.6	Rationale for the Government's Role in Optimal Investment in Elderly Health Promotion	127
7.7	Evidence on Value for Money of Health Promotion and Disease Prevention Policies	129
7.8	Does Government Invest Enough in Elderly Disease Prevention?	131
7.9	R&D	134
7.10	Conclusion	135
8	The Economics of Long-Term Care	139
	David N. F Bell and Elizabeth Lemmon
8.1	Introduction	139
8.2	The Market for Long-Term Care	140

8.3	The Contrast between Health Economics and the Economics of Long-Term Care	142
8.4	Key Issues for the Economics of Long-Term Care	143
8.5	Systematic Search for Articles Relating to the Economics of Long-Term Care	143
8.6	Issues Identified by Systematic Search	145
8.6.1	Unpaid Care	145
8.6.2	Demand/Insurance	151
8.6.3	Expenditure	152
8.6.4	Labor Market	153
8.7	Conclusion and Discussion	153
9	In Good and Bad Times—Associations between Spousal Health and Assortative Matching on Early-Life Factors in Europe	158
	Iris Kesternich, Bettina Siflinger, and James P. Smith
9.1	Introduction	158
9.2	Literature	160
9.3	Data	161
9.4	Associations in Spousal Adult Health and Its Determinants across Regions	167
9.5	Assortative Matching on Childhood Background and Adult Health	169
9.5.1	The Matching Model	169
9.5.2	Results: Matching Attributes and Health Outcomes	170
9.6	Conclusion	174
10	Mental Health and Illness in Ageing	178
	Sherry Glied, Carolyn D. Gorman, and Richard Frank
10.1	Introduction	178
10.2	Common Characteristics of Mental Illness Relevant to Ageing	179
10.2.1	Compounded Consequences of Mental Illness for Social and Financial Well-Being due to Early Onset, Chronic Persistence, and Episodic Recurrence	179
10.2.2	Responsiveness to Economic, Social, and Personal Circumstances	181
10.3	Epidemiology of Mental Illnesses in a Life Course Context	182
10.3.1	Life Satisfaction	183
10.3.2	Suicide	183
10.3.3	Mortality and Morbidity	185
10.4	Policy Challenges Posed by Mental Illness in the Context of Ageing	186
10.4.1	Financial Security, Savings, and Investments	187
10.4.2	Social Capital, Social Networks, and Caregiver Burden	188
10.4.3	Implications for Health Systems	189
10.5	Concluding Observations	190

PART II
Pensions and Social Security	197
11 Social Security Reforms in Heterogeneous Ageing Populations	199
Miguel Sánchez-Romero and Alexia Prskawetz
11.1 Introduction	199
11.2 Redistribution in Pension Plans: The Internal Rate of Return	202
11.3 Mortality Gradient by SES and the Impact on the IRR	203
11.4 Correction of Pension Plans for the Mortality Gradient by SES	204
11.4.1 Contributions	204
11.4.2 Benefits	205
11.5 Directions of Future Research	206
11.5.1 Estimation of the Mortality Gradient by SES	206
11.5.2 Empirical Evidence on the Variation of the IRR across SES Groups	207
11.5.3 Impact of Pension Reforms on Inequality (Behavioral Reactions)	208
11.5.4 Transition Costs	209
11.5.5 Multi-Pillar Approach	209
11.5.6 Dealing with the Source of the Inequality Problem	210
11.6 Conclusion	210
11.7 Appendix	214
11.7.1 Determinants of the IRR	214
11.7.2 Independence of the IRR to Different Income Levels	216
12 Economic Preparation for Retirement	217
Michael D. Hurd and Susann Rohwedder
12.1 Introduction	217
12.2 The Income Replacement Rate	219
12.2.1 Measurement of Replacement Rates	220
12.2.2 Shortcomings of the Income Replacement Rate	220
12.2.3 Financing of Consumption Out of Savings	221
12.2.4 Differential Mortality	221
12.2.5 The Role of Children	221
12.2.6 Life-Cycle Consumption Path Is Not Flat, Varies by Observables	222
12.3 Preparation for Retirement in the Context of a Structural Life-Cycle Model	223
12.4 Consumption-Based Measure of Economic Preparation for Retirement	224
12.5 Comparison with Income Replacement Rates	226
12.6 Summary and Conclusions	229
12.7 Future Research	231
13 Pension Policy in Emerging Asian Economies with Population Ageing: What Do We Know, Where Should We Go?	234
George Kudrna, Philip O'Keefe, and John Piggott
13.1 Introduction	234
13.2 Ageing and Informality	235
13.2.1 Demographic Change and Population Ageing	236
13.2.2 Informality and the Elderly Population	238
13.3 Pension Policy	240

13.3.1	Multi-Pillar Pension Taxonomy	241
13.3.2	Pension Policy in Emerging EA and SEA Economies	242
13.4	Policy Directions—Expanding Social Pensions	249
13.4.1	Policy Objectives and Economic Analysis	250
13.4.2	Features of Social Pensions	252
13.4.3	Fiscal Costs of Targeted Social Pensions—An Example	254
13.5	Concluding Comments	256
14	Trends in Pension Reforms in OECD Countries	262
	Hervé Boulhol, Maciej Lis, and Monika Queisser
14.1	Introduction	262
14.2	Extent, Limit, and Impact of Pension Reforms Over the Last Decades	263
14.2.1	Greater Recognition of Challenges Ahead but Uneven Pension Policy Achievements	263
14.2.2	Pension Reforms and the Political Process	264
14.2.3	More Efforts Needed to Assess the Impact of Enacted Reforms on Old-Age Income Inequality	266
14.2.4	The Shrinking Pension Gender Gap	267
14.3	New Avenues for Pension Policies	268
14.3.1	Policy Options to Increase Effective Retirement Ages and Their Limitations	268
14.3.2	The Question of Greater Sustainability of Pension Systems through Flexible Retirement	271
14.3.3	Pension Issues Related to Self-Employment	272
14.3.4	Impact of COVID-19 on Pensions	273
14.3.5	Consideration of Inequality in Life Expectancy in the Design of Pension Policies	274
14.3.6	News in the Debate between PAYG and Funded Pensions	275
PART III
Income and Economic Growth		285
15	Economic Growth, Intergenerational Transfers, and Population Ageing	287
	Ronald Lee
15.1	Introduction	287
15.2	The Recent Literature	289
15.3	The Age-Distributed Economy	290
15.4	Population Ageing, Economic Output, and Its Primary Distribution	291
15.5	Population Ageing and the Intergenerational Redistribution of Income	292
15.6	Insights from National Transfer Accounts	292
15.7	Summary Measures of Imbalances Created by Population Ageing	294
15.8	Estimated Impact of Population Ageing on Economic Flows Over the Next 50 Years	295
15.9	Summary Indices: General Support Ratio and Transfer Load	297
15.10	Other Aspects of Population Ageing in Relation to Economic Growth	299
15.11	Research Directions	300

16 Consumption, Saving, and Wealth Accumulation at Old Age: Comparing Evidence from Developed and Developing Countries	303
Marco Angrisani, Jinkook Lee, and Giacomo Rebellato
16.1 Introduction	303
16.2 Consumption, Saving, and Wealth in Developed and Developing Countries	304
16.3 Consumption, Saving, and Wealth at Older Ages	306
16.3.1 Developed Countries	306
16.3.2 Longevity Risk	308
16.3.3 Bequest Motives	308
16.3.4 Medical Expenditures	309
16.3.5 Developing Countries	310
16.4 Advanced Research on Consumption, Savings, and Wealth Accumulation Decisions at Old Ages: New Data from Developing Countries	312
16.5 Conclusion	313
17 Automation and Ageing	317
Ana L. Abeliantsky and Klaus Prettnner
17.1 Introduction and Background	317
17.2 The Role of Automation in Compensating for Ageing: A Simple Theoretical Illustration and the Current State of Empirical Research	319
17.3 Potential Displacement of Workers by Robots	321
17.4 The Effects of Automation on Health	322
17.5 Important Future Research Questions	323
17.6 Conclusions	325
18 Working Life—Labor Supply, Ageing, and Longevity	329
Andrew J. Scott
18.1 Introduction	329
18.2 Cross-Country and Historical Trends	331
18.2.1 Fact 1. Labor Force Participation Shows an Inverted U-Shaped Rela- tionship with Age	331
18.2.2 Fact 2. Labor Force Participation of Men and Women Show Broadly Similar Variations with Age	331
18.2.3 Fact 3. Since the 1990s Labor Force Participation Rates in High- Income Countries Have Been Rising, Reversing a Century-Long Period of Decline	332
18.2.4 Fact 4. Increased Employment in Older Age Groups Has Become an Important Source of Overall GDP Growth	332
18.2.5 Fact 5. While Employment at Older Ages Has Increased, It Is Highest and Increasing Fastest among Those with Higher Levels of Education	332
18.2.6 Fact 6. Older Workers Are More Likely to Be Engaged in Part-Time Work and Be Self-Employed	333
18.2.7 Fact 7. Older Age Groups Remain Active and Productive Outside of the Labor Market	335
18.3 The Age of Retirement	335
18.3.1 Optimal Retirement	336
18.3.2 The Link between Retirement and Longevity	337
18.4 Beyond Retirement	340

18.4.1	Health	340
18.4.2	Wages	341
18.4.3	Hiring and Labor Demand	341
18.4.4	Education	342
18.4.5	The Nature of Work	342
18.5	Toward a Theory of Ageing	343
18.5.1	Different Concepts of Ageing	343
18.5.2	The Role of Time in Ageing	344
18.5.3	Are Older Workers Different?	344
18.6	Conclusions	345
19	Education and Ageing: Human Capital Investments and Ageing	349
	Andries de Grip and Raymond Montizaan
19.1	Introduction	349
19.2	Production of Human Capital through the Life Cycle	350
19.2.1	Lifetime Effects of General versus Vocational Initial Education	351
19.2.2	Learning by Doing	352
19.2.3	Learning from Peers in the Workplace	352
19.3	Skills Obsolescence	353
19.4	Lifelong Learning: Returns on Human Capital Investments of Older Workers	354
19.5	Training and Retirement of Older Workers	356
19.6	Research Agenda	357
PART IV
Work and Employment		361
20	The Employment of Older Workers	363
	Hippolyte d'Albis
20.1	Introduction	363
20.2	Changes in the Labor Supply	364
20.2.1	Health and Mortality	364
20.2.2	Education and Qualifications	365
20.2.3	Women's Labor Force Participation	366
20.3	Technological and Structural Developments	367
20.3.1	The Productivity of Older Workers	367
20.3.2	Sectorial Transformations	369
20.3.3	The Transformations of Working Conditions	370
20.4	Social Security and Public Policies	371
20.4.1	Retirement Systems	371
20.4.2	Health Insurance	372
20.4.3	Labor Market Regulations	373
21	Retirement and Health	381
	Jan C. van Ours
21.1	Introduction	381
21.2	Setting the Stage—Cross-Country Comparison of Retirement-Related Statistics	383
21.3	How Retirement Affects Mental Health and Physical Health	386

21.3.1	Cross-Country Studies	386
21.3.2	Single-Country Studies	389
21.3.3	Overview Studies	390
21.4	Effects of Retirement on Mortality	390
21.5	Cross-Partner Effects of Retirement	391
21.6	What Have We Learned?	391
21.7	What Can We Do?	392
21.8	Where Do We Go from Here?	393
22	The Relevance of Cognition in the Context of Population Ageing	396
	Bernt Bratsberg, Ole Røgeberg, and Végard Skirbekk
22.1	Background	396
22.2	Data	398
22.3	Education, Employment, and Earnings	399
22.4	Marriage, Cohabitation, and Fertility	401
22.5	Health and Mortality	403
22.6	Cohort Trends	404
22.7	Conclusion	406
23	Productivity in an Ageing World	410
	Axel Börsch-Supan and Matthias Weiss
23.1	Introduction	410
23.2	Methodological Challenges	415
23.2.1	Age-Productivity Profile of Individuals	415
23.2.2	Methodological Challenges at the Country Level	417
23.3	Age and Productivity at the Micro Level	418
23.4	Ageing and Productivity at the Country Level	424
23.5	Summary and Conclusions	428
24	Population Ageing and Gender Gaps: Labor Market, Family Relationships, and Public Policy	437
	Paola Profeta
24.1	Introduction	437
24.2	The Relationship between Female Employment and Fertility	439
24.3	The Labor Market	441
24.3.1	The Labor Supply of Elderly Workers	441
24.3.2	The Labor Demand of Elderly Workers	442
24.3.3	The “Double Burden” of Age and Gender	443
24.3.4	Gender Gaps from the Labor Market to Pensions	443
24.4	Family Relationships	445
24.5	Public Policy	445
24.6	Conclusions	447

PART V
Data and Measurement	453
25 Measuring Ageing	455
Holger Strulik
25.1 Introduction	455
25.2 The Force of Mortality	456
25.3 The Gompertz-Makeham Formula	456
25.4 Human Life Span and the Strehler-Mildvan Correlation	459
25.5 Reliability Theory	461
25.6 The Frailty Index	463
25.7 Individual Ageing	466
25.8 Ageing of Populations	467
25.9 Discussion and Conclusion	468
26 The Health and Retirement Study	474
John W. R. Phillips and David R. Weir
26.1 Introduction	474
26.2 Phase 1: HRS Origins	474
26.3 Phase 2: The Steady State	477
26.3.1 The Steady-State Sample Design	477
26.3.2 Ancillary Studies	478
26.3.3 Internet	480
26.3.4 Dementia	480
26.4 Phase 3: Expanding Scope in the Core Survey	481
26.5 Phase 4: New External Initiatives	482
27 National Transfer Accounts and the Economics of Ageing	486
Andrew Mason
27.1 The Generational Economy and NTA Foundations	486
27.2 NTA Illustrated	489
27.3 NTA around the World	491
27.4 Use of NTA to Understand the Economics of Ageing	494
27.4.1 Youth and Old-Age Deficits	494
27.4.2 The Demographic Dividend	495
27.4.3 A Longitudinal Perspective	498
27.5 Future Directions	503
27.6 Conclusion	503
28 Ageing and Dependency	506
Warren C. Sanderson and Sergei Scherbov
28.1 Introduction	506
28.2 Economic Dependency	507
28.3 Noneconomic Dependency	512
28.4 Measures of Population Ageing without Dependency	515
28.5 Usefulness of the Old-Age Dependency Ratio Despite Its Problems	515
28.6 Conclusion	516

29 Patterns of Time Use among Older People	520
Maddalena Ferranna, JP Sevilla, Leo Zucker, and David E. Bloom
29.1 Introduction	520
29.2 Literature Review	521
29.3 Data Resources	522
29.4 Patterns of Time Use by Age	525
29.5 Patterns of Time Use among Older People by Sociodemographic Characteristics	530
29.6 Research Needs and Opportunities	532
 PART VI
Ageing and Personality	537
 30 Ageing and Economic Preferences	539
Thomas Dohmen, David Huffman, and Uwe Sunde
30.1 Introduction	539
30.2 Age and Economic Preferences	540
30.2.1 Measures of Preferences	540
30.2.2 Risk Attitudes	541
30.2.3 Patience	542
30.3 Identifying the Age Gradient	543
30.3.1 The Age-Period-Cohort Problem	543
30.3.2 Age and Longevity	544
30.4 Mechanisms Linking Preferences to Age	544
30.5 Outlook	546
 31 Financial Literacy and Financial Behavior at Older Ages	553
Olivia S. Mitchell and Annamaria Lusardi
31.1 Introduction	553
31.2 Retirement Planning, Debt, and Financial Fragility at Older Ages	554
31.3 Financial Literacy at Older Ages	555
31.4 Financial Literacy and Financial Behaviors in Later Life	559
31.5 Limitations and Extensions	560
31.6 Policy Implications and Next Steps	561
 32 Age and the Value of Life	566
Maddalena Ferranna, James K. Hammitt, and Matthew D. Adler
32.1 Introduction	566
32.2 Age and the Value per Statistical Life	568
32.3 The Social Welfare Function Approach	570
32.4 Age and the Social Value of Mortality Risk Reduction	572
32.5 Discussion and Conclusion	574
 33 Happiness and Ageing in the United States	578
David G. Blanchflower and Carol Graham
33.1 Introduction	578
33.2 The Existence of a U-Shape in Happiness and Life Satisfaction	582
33.3 Empirical Evidence	585

33.3.1	Behavioral Risk Factor Surveillance System 2005–2017 (n=2,405,840)	585
33.3.2	Gallup U.S. Daily Tracker Poll, 2008–2017 (n=2,436,798)	586
33.3.3	General Social Surveys, 1972–2018 (n=60,054)	588
33.4	The Differences between the Married and the Non-Married	590
33.5	The Elderly	595
33.6	Conclusion	598
34	Ageing and Foreign Policy Preferences	604
	Mark L. Haas
34.1	Introduction	604
34.2	Population Ageing and Increased Preferences for International Peace	605
34.3	Ageing and Decreased Preferences for Internationalism	607
34.3.1	Ageing and Reduced Capabilities	607
34.3.2	Ageing and the Empowerment of Nationalist Leaders	611
34.4	Conclusion	612
35	Behavioral Science and Noncommunicable Diseases in Low- and Middle-Income Countries	616
	Nikkil Sudharsanan, Michael R. Eber, and Margaret McConnell
35.1	Introduction	616
35.2	Key Care Differences between NCDs and Infectious Diseases and Their Implications for Clinician and Patient Behavior	617
35.3	Behaviors of Health System Actors Needed for Delivery of High-Quality NCD Care	619
35.3.1	Knowledge	619
35.3.2	Patient Norms and Beliefs	620
35.3.3	Inertia, Attention, and Habit	620
35.3.4	Health System Barriers and Design Frictions	620
35.4	Patient Behaviors Important for NCD Management	621
35.4.1	Biased Beliefs and Mismatched Mental Models	621
35.4.2	Present Bias	622
35.4.3	Forgetting, Inattention, and Salience	623
35.5	How Might Interventions Improve Compliance with NCD Care?	623
35.5.1	Provider-Focused Interventions	624
35.5.2	Provider Interventions to Address Knowledge Gaps	624
35.5.3	Interventions to Address Clinical Inertia and Low Attentiveness	624
35.5.4	Provider Interventions to Address Incentives	625
35.5.5	Patient-Focused Interventions	625
35.5.6	Patient Interventions for Forgetting or Inattentiveness	625
35.5.7	Patient Interventions to Address Present Bias	627
35.5.8	Patient-Focused Interventions	630
35.6	Conclusions	630
36	The Implications of Population Ageing for Immigrant- and Gender-Related Attitudes	639
	Andreas Irmen and Anastasia Litina
36.1	Introduction	639
36.2	Ageing and Attitudes toward Immigration	641

36.2.1 Individual Ageing	643
36.2.2 Population Ageing	644
36.2.3 Policy Implications	645
36.3 Ageing and Attitudes toward Women	646
36.3.1 Individual Ageing	648
36.3.2 Population Ageing	648
36.3.3 Policy Implications	650
36.4 Concluding Remarks	651
PART VII
Regional Developments	655
37 Global Ageing and Health	657
Anna Reuter, Till Bärnighausen, and Stefan Kohler
37.1 An Ageing World	657
37.2 Ageing Populations	658
37.2.1 Demographic Transition	658
37.2.2 Population Growth	658
37.2.3 Population Aged 65 or Over	659
37.3 Ageing Individuals	661
37.3.1 Life Expectancy	661
37.3.2 Healthy Life Expectancy	662
37.3.3 Morbidities and Mortality among the Elderly	663
37.4 Ageing and Other Megatrends	664
37.4.1 Chronic Conditions and Ageing	664
37.4.2 Universal Health Coverage and Ageing	664
37.4.3 Pandemics and Ageing	666
37.4.4 Climate Change and Ageing	666
37.4.5 Migration and Ageing	666
37.4.6 Family Structures and Ageing	667
37.4.7 Ageing in a Digital World	667
37.5 Opportunities and Challenges for an Ageing World	668
38 Social Protection and Population Ageing: A Comparative Analysis of India and Indonesia	671
Mukul G. Asher and Chang Yee Kwan
38.1 Introduction	671
38.2 Demographic Dynamics in India and Indonesia	673
38.2.1 National Comparisons	673
38.2.2 Intra-Country Observations	675
38.3 Key Characteristics and Recent Initiatives	679
38.3.1 Overview	679
38.3.2 India: Recent Initiatives	680
38.3.3 Service Provision Component	680
38.3.4 Managerial Component	682
38.3.5 Co-Payment Component	683
38.3.6 Technological Component	683
38.3.7 Indonesia: Recent Initiatives	684

38.4	Sustainability and Fairness: Major Challenges	685
38.5	Research Agenda	686
38.5.1	Actuarial Projections	686
38.5.2	Financial and Investment Management Literacy	687
38.5.3	Risk Management in the Payout Phase	688
38.5.4	Modernization of Social Protection Organizations	688
38.5.5	The Political Economy of Social Protection Reforms	688
39	Ageing in China	691
	Peng Nie and Yaohui Zhao
39.1	Introduction	691
39.2	Demographic Characteristics of Population Ageing	692
39.3	Economics of Ageing	692
39.3.1	Social Security	693
39.3.2	Retirement	694
39.4	Health Status and Healthcare of the Ageing Population	695
39.4.1	Health Status	695
39.4.2	Health Behaviors	700
39.4.3	Health Insurance and Healthcare Utilization	703
39.5	Family Support	707
39.5.1	Financial Support	707
39.5.2	Long-Term Care	707
39.5.3	The Future Role of Family	707
39.6	Discussion and Conclusions	708
40	Ageing in Latin America	713
	Bernardo L. Queiroz and B. Piedad Urdinola
40.1	Introduction	713
40.2	Measuring Ageing in the Region	715
40.3	Population Ageing and Economic Consequences	716
40.4	Overview of Social Support Systems in Latin America	718
40.5	Demographic Changes, Intergenerational Transfers, and Inequality	724
40.6	Demographics, Gender, and Time Use in Latin America	726
40.7	Migration, Gender Differences, and Ageing	729
40.8	Conclusion and Policy Implications	730
41	Population Ageing and Migration	735
	Panu Poutvaara
41.1	Introduction	735
41.2	Previous Literature	739
41.2.1	Self-Selection of International Migrants	740
41.2.2	Effects of Immigration in Destination Countries	741
41.2.3	Welfare Effects of Emigration in Origin Countries	742
41.2.4	Demographic Change and Global Migration	743
41.3	Theoretical Framework	744
41.4	Empirical Evidence	745
41.5	Research Agenda for the Future	751
	Index	757